

The gospel of Mark tells the story of Jesus' life, death and resurrection. Stefan Smart has learned it all by heart and is performing it in public across the country.

Saturday 24 March, starting at 2.30pm

Stefan Smart is coming to outside St Mary's Church
Watford High Street to put on an audacious solo dramatization.

Stefan Smart is a drama teacher from Southampton, who is currently on a nationwide tour. All 16 chapters, 1 hour 40 minutes, no props, script or scenery, 1 amazing story. Come and see!! Click for more information.

Without props, scripts or scenery, he'll recite all sixteen chapters of Mark's Gospel in one hour and forty-five minutes.

It's an actual play, not simply a reading – just word for word Bible, with a host of colourful characters, many moving moments and not a little humour.

It's all part of a nationwide tour that Stefan is taking on, from Hyde Park to the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

Stefan, 57, says, "I'm expecting lots of people scurrying past, confused faces and probably a few sniggers.

"But I hope the raw power of the Gospel will capture people's attention and their imagination.

"It's the greatest story ever told, and I'm not afraid to tell it."

For more information check out Stefan's website: www.markinthepark.org.uk or contact him on daretodream@newcommunity.org.uk